Overview

The Department of Architecture at UC Berkeley has a strong tradition of fostering design and research. The faculty offer rigorous undergraduate and graduate programs and carry out leading research in constructed and speculative environments, architectural technologies, and architectural humanities. The multidisciplinary interests of faculty and graduate students form the basis of exciting new research collaborations with a variety of other disciplines, including landscape architecture, sustainable environmental design, structural engineering, new media, and urban studies.

The Department's evolution has been nourished by social, cultural, and environmental values, reflected in our innovative teaching, scholarly research, critical design inquiry, and synthetic practice. Over fifty years later, our founding principles remain a strong underpinning of our department, while supporting our continual exploration of emerging theory and knowledge in design thinking, innovative materials and technologies, digital design and fabrication, and sustainability. And these fundamental principles and values have never been more relevant. They are precisely what are needed most in our discipline today, and in our world at large, to help us tackle the complex environmental challenges we face in profound and meaningful ways.

Rather than embracing a single conception of architecture, by intention, we welcome and value distinct views that broaden each of our own horizons. We are interested in the entire life cycle of the building process, from conceptualization, through design and representation, craft and construction, and the performance of both constructed and virtual environments. All of this guided to re-vision, to re-imagine, and to re-make the future of our dwelling environments.

Accreditation

In the United States, most state registration boards require a degree from an accredited professional degree program as a prerequisite for licensure. The National Architectural Accrediting Board (NAAB), which is the sole agency authorized to accredit U.S. professional degree programs in Architecture, recognizes three types of degrees: the Bachelor of Architecture, the Master of Architecture, and the Doctor of Architecture. A program may be granted an 8-year, 6-year, 3-year, or 2-year term of accreditation, depending on the extent of its conformance with established educational standards. Master of Architecture degree programs may consist of a pre-professional undergraduate degree and a professional graduate degree that, when earned sequentially, constitute an accredited professional education. However, the pre-professional degree is not, by itself, recognized as an accredited degree.

University of California, Berkeley, College of Environmental Design, Department of Architecture offers the following NAAB-accredited degree programs:

- MArch (requires pre-professional degree 120 credits + 48 graduate credits)
- MArch (requires non-professional degree + 72 credits)

Next accreditation visit for all programs: 2024

Architecture Lecture Series

The Department of Architecture sponsors a lecture series that offers students the opportunity to hear internationally acclaimed speakers. These speakers often also participate in classes and seminars as part of their visit to campus. For a schedule of speakers and events in this lecture series, please see the Architecture Department website (<https://ced.berkeley.edu/arch/>).

ARCH 11A Introduction to Visual Representation and Drawing 4 Units

Terms offered: Fall 2025, Fall 2024, Fall 2023

Introductory studio course: theories of representation and the use of several visual means, including freehand drawing and digital media, to analyze and convey ideas regarding the environment. Topics include contour, scale, perspective, color, tone, texture, and design.

Rules & Requirements

Prerequisites: ENV DES 1 with C- or better

Hours & Format

Fall and/or spring: 15 weeks - 2 hours of lecture and 6 hours of studio per week

Summer: 8 weeks - 3.5 hours of lecture and 11 hours of studio per week

Additional Details

Subject/Course Level: Architecture/Undergraduate

Grading/Final exam status: Letter grade. Final exam not required.

Formerly known as: Environmental Design 11A

ARCH 11B Introduction to Design 5 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2025, Spring 2024, Summer 2023 8 Week Session

Introduction to design concepts and conventions of graphic representation and model building as related to the study of architecture, landscape architecture, urban design, and city planning. Students draw in plan, section, elevation, axonometric, and perspective and are introduced to digital media. Design projects address concepts of order, site analysis, scale, structure, rhythm, detail, culture, and landscape.

Rules & Requirements

Prerequisites: ARCH 11A with C- or better

Hours & Format

Fall and/or spring: 15 weeks - 2 hours of lecture, 3 hours of laboratory, and 6 hours of studio per week

Summer: 8 weeks - 4 hours of lecture, 6 hours of laboratory, and 11 hours of studio per week

Additional Details

Subject/Course Level: Architecture/Undergraduate

Grading/Final exam status: Letter grade. Final exam not required.

Formerly known as: Environmental Design 11B

ARCH 24 Freshman Seminars 1 Unit

Terms offered: Fall 2022, Spring 2022, Fall 2021

The Berkeley Seminar Program has been designed to provide new students with the opportunity to explore an intellectual topic with a faculty member in a small-seminar setting. Berkeley Seminars are offered in all campus departments, and topics vary from department to department and semester to semester.

Rules & Requirements

Repeat rules: Course may be repeated for credit when topic changes.

Hours & Format

Fall and/or spring: 15 weeks - 1 hour of seminar per week

Additional Details

Subject/Course Level: Architecture/Undergraduate

Grading/Final exam status: The grading option will be decided by the instructor when the class is offered. Final exam required.

ARCH 39A Freshman/Sophomore Seminar 2 - 4 Units

Terms offered: Fall 2012, Fall 2003, Fall 2002

Freshman and sophomore seminars offer lower division students the opportunity to explore an intellectual topic with a faculty member and a group of peers in a small-seminar setting. These seminars are offered in all campus departments; topics vary from department to department and from semester to semester.

Rules & Requirements

Prerequisites: Priority given to freshmen and sophomores

Repeat rules: Course may be repeated for credit without restriction.

Hours & Format

Fall and/or spring: 15 weeks - 2-4 hours of seminar per week

Summer: 8 weeks - 4-8 hours of seminar per week

Additional Details

Subject/Course Level: Architecture/Undergraduate

Grading/Final exam status: The grading option will be decided by the instructor when the class is offered. Final exam not required.

ARCH 84 Sophomore Seminar 1 or 2 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2025, Spring 2024, Spring 2023

Sophomore seminars are small interactive courses offered by faculty members in departments all across the campus. Sophomore seminars offer opportunity for close, regular intellectual contact between faculty members and students in the crucial second year. The topics vary from department to department and semester to semester. Enrollment limited to 15 sophomores.

Rules & Requirements

Prerequisites: At discretion of instructor

Repeat rules: Course may be repeated for credit when topic changes.

Hours & Format

Fall and/or spring:

5 weeks - 3-6 hours of seminar per week

10 weeks - 1.5-3 hours of seminar per week

15 weeks - 1-2 hours of seminar per week

Summer:

6 weeks - 2.5-5 hours of seminar per week

8 weeks - 1.5-3.5 hours of seminar and 2-4 hours of seminar per week

Additional Details

Subject/Course Level: Architecture/Undergraduate

Grading/Final exam status: The grading option will be decided by the instructor when the class is offered. Final exam required.

ARCH 98 Special Group Study 1 - 4 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2021, Fall 2020, Spring 2020

This is a special topics course intended to fulfill the individual interests of students, and provide a vehicle for professors to instruct students based on new and innovative developments in the field of architecture.

Rules & Requirements

Credit Restrictions: Enrollment is restricted; see the section on Academic Policies-Course Number Guide in the Berkeley Bulletin.

Repeat rules: Course may be repeated for credit without restriction.

Hours & Format

Fall and/or spring: 15 weeks - 1-4 hours of directed group study per week

Additional Details

Subject/Course Level: Architecture/Undergraduate

Grading/Final exam status: Offered for pass/not pass grade only. Final exam not required.

ARCH 98BC Berkeley Connect 1 Unit

Terms offered: Fall 2025, Spring 2025, Fall 2024

Berkeley Connect is a mentoring program, offered through various academic departments, that helps students build intellectual community. Over the course of a semester, enrolled students participate in regular small-group discussions facilitated by a graduate student mentor (following a faculty-directed curriculum), meet with their graduate student mentor for one-on-one academic advising, attend lectures and panel discussions featuring department faculty and alumni, and go on field trips to campus resources. Students are not required to be declared majors in order to participate.

Rules & Requirements

Credit Restrictions: Enrollment is restricted; see the section on Academic Policies-Course Number Guide in the Berkeley Bulletin.

Repeat rules: Course may be repeated for credit without restriction.

Hours & Format

Fall and/or spring: 15 weeks - 1 hour of seminar per week

Additional Details

Subject/Course Level: Architecture/Undergraduate

Grading/Final exam status: Offered for pass/not pass grade only. Final exam not required.

ARCH 99 Supervised Independent Study and Research 1 - 4 Units

Terms offered: Not yet offered

Enrollment is restricted by regulations in the General Catalog. Studies developed to meet individual needs.

Rules & Requirements

Repeat rules: Course may be repeated for credit up to a total of 4 units.

Hours & Format

Fall and/or spring: 15 weeks - 1-4 hours of independent study per week

Summer: 12 weeks - 1-4 hours of independent study per week

Additional Details

Subject/Course Level: Architecture/Undergraduate

Grading/Final exam status: Offered for pass/not pass grade only. Alternative to final exam.

ARCH 100A Fundamentals of Architectural Design 6 Units

Terms offered: Fall 2025, Fall 2024, Fall 2023

Introductory courses in the design of buildings. Problems emphasize conceptual strategies of form and space, site relationships and social, technological and environmental determinants. 100A focuses on the conceptual design process.

Rules & Requirements

Prerequisites: Arch 11A & 11B With a C- or better. Must be taken in sequence

Hours & Format

Fall and/or spring: 15 weeks - 2 hours of lecture, 2 hours of laboratory, and 6 hours of studio per week

Summer: 8 weeks - 4 hours of lecture, 3 hours of laboratory, and 12 hours of studio per week

Additional Details

Subject/Course Level: Architecture/Undergraduate

Grading/Final exam status: Letter grade. Final exam not required.

ARCH 100B Fundamentals of Architectural Design 6 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2025, Spring 2024, Spring 2023

Introductory courses in the design of buildings. Problems emphasize conceptual strategies of form and space, site relationships and social, technological and environmental determinants. 100B stresses tectonics, materials, and energy considerations. Studio work is supplemented by lectures, discussions, readings and field trips.

Rules & Requirements

Prerequisites: Arch 100A with a C- or better. Must be taken in sequence

Hours & Format

Fall and/or spring: 15 weeks - 2 hours of lecture, 2 hours of laboratory, and 6 hours of studio per week

Summer: 8 weeks - 4 hours of lecture, 3 hours of laboratory, and 12 hours of studio per week

Additional Details

Subject/Course Level: Architecture/Undergraduate

Grading/Final exam status: Letter grade. Final exam not required.

ARCH 100C Architectural Design III 5 Units

Terms offered: Fall 2025, Summer 2025 10 Week Session, Fall 2024

This is a studio course in architectural design. Students work on individual and group design projects that build on topics from Architecture 100B with additional integration of conditions pertinent to architectural production that may include architectural precedents, context, landscape and urban issues, envelope, performance, structure, and tectonics in the design of buildings.

Rules & Requirements

Prerequisites: Arch 100B with a C- or better

Repeat rules: Course may be repeated for credit with instructor consent.

Hours & Format

Fall and/or spring: 15 weeks - 8 hours of studio per week

Summer: 10 weeks - 12 hours of studio per week

Additional Details

Subject/Course Level: Architecture/Undergraduate

Grading/Final exam status: Letter grade. Final exam not required.

ARCH 100D Architectural Design IV 5 Units

Terms offered: Summer 2025 10 Week Session, Spring 2025, Summer 2024 10 Week Session

Students work on individual and/or group design projects that build on topics from previous studios with additional integration of conditions pertinent to architectural production that may include architectural precedents, context, landscape and urban issues, envelope, structure, and tectonics in the design of buildings. It may also include relevant and pertinent social, cultural, and technological issues facing architecture and design.

Rules & Requirements

Prerequisites: Arch 100B with a C- or better

Repeat rules: Course may be repeated for credit with instructor consent.

Hours & Format

Fall and/or spring: 15 weeks - 8 hours of studio per week

Summer: 10 weeks - 12 hours of studio per week

Additional Details

Subject/Course Level: Architecture/Undergraduate

Grading/Final exam status: Letter grade. Final exam not required.

ARCH 102A Capstone Project Preparation Seminar 3 Units

Terms offered: Fall 2023, Fall 2021, Fall 2020

This course is a course in architectural research methods with an emphasis on collaborative work. Students will work on individual facets of a collective topic of critical importance to the contemporary discipline of architecture within areas of faculty expertise. These include: architectural history and theory, structures, materials and methods of construction, building performance, energy and environment, and social factors and human behavior in architecture and the environment. The goal of Capstone Preparation is to develop a coherent research proposal that will be used as a topic for the Capstone Project course taken the following semester.

Objectives & Outcomes

Course Objectives: Ability to communicate research findings through oral, written and graphic modes of presentation to a variety of audiences. Comprehension of the ethics and professional responsibilities of research and how they relate to the discipline of architecture. Develop a research proposal of scholarly significance, identifying and effectively communicating the information sources, skill sets, and research process required to pursue the project. Formulate clear and precise questions, interpret information using abstract ideas, consider culturally diverse points of view, and reach well-reasoned conclusions. Gather, record, evaluate and apply information relevant to a research problem. Identify and critically assess the knowledge base and body of literature relevant to a specific research project. Understand the role of applied research in environmental design and its impact on human conditions, behavior and impact on the environment. Work with others to coordinate individual research ventures addressing a larger collective topic, and to learn to work in a supervised collaborative team.

Rules & Requirements

Prerequisites: Architecture 100A, Architecture 100B

Hours & Format

Fall and/or spring: 15 weeks - 3 hours of seminar per week

Additional Details

Subject/Course Level: Architecture/Undergraduate

Grading/Final exam status: Letter grade. Alternative to final exam.

ARCH 102B Architecture Capstone Project 5 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2025, Spring 2024, Spring 2022

Through individual and collective efforts, students will address topics selected in the previous semester under the guidance of faculty mentors. Topics in the field which may serve as a basis for capstone projects include: the history and theory of architecture; structures; the materials and methods of construction; building performance; energy and the environment; and social factors and human behavior. This course is aimed at students who wish to strengthen their understanding of the research methods used by the discipline of architecture and related disciplines (e.g., engineering or history), and is not solely design oriented.

Objectives & Outcomes

Course Objectives: Communicate complex research questions, ideas and findings clearly, both orally and in writing, to a broad community. Demonstrate a critical understanding of how resources, including literature and data, are used in critical study and how these resources can be assessed for their validity and reliability. Demonstrate analytic skills. Understand the nature of research questions in the field, and how to choose appropriate architectural research methods given time, cost and skill constraints. Demonstrate critical thinking. Analyze, compare and critique information gathered. Organize a coherent argument. Derive objective conclusions based on the information and inquiry. Learn how to work in a supervised, collaborative research team, drawing on the diverse skills and knowledge of peers and faculty mentors. Understand the ethics and professional responsibilities of research and how this relates to the discipline of architecture.

Rules & Requirements

Prerequisites: Architecture 102A

Hours & Format

Fall and/or spring: 15 weeks - 4 hours of seminar and 4 hours of studio per week

Additional Details

Subject/Course Level: Architecture/Undergraduate

Grading/Final exam status: Letter grade. Alternative to final exam.

ARCH 105 Deep Green Design 4 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2014, Fall 2013

This course explores the issues and practices of green architectural design through critical readings of seminal and current texts, lectures, films, field trips and projects that use both design and analysis as means of inquiry. The course examines varied approaches to sustainable design including using nature and wilderness as models, biophilia, biomimicry, material sources and reuse, accounting systems such as LEED, Zero Net Carbon and the 2030 Challenge, and the Living Building Challenge.

Rules & Requirements

Prerequisites: Completion of a minimum of one design studio, two studios preferred

Hours & Format

Fall and/or spring: 15 weeks - 4 hours of seminar per week

Additional Details

Subject/Course Level: Architecture/Undergraduate

Grading/Final exam status: Letter grade. Alternative to final exam.

Instructor: Ubbelohde

ARCH 107 Introduction to the Practice of Architecture 3 Units

Terms offered: Prior to 2007

Introduction to the business of architecture including client, developer and contractor relations, design proposals, competitions, and other marketing approaches as well as ethical issues of professional practice.

Hours & Format

Fall and/or spring: 15 weeks - 3 hours of lecture per week

Additional Details

Subject/Course Level: Architecture/Undergraduate

Grading/Final exam status: Letter grade. Final exam required.

Formerly known as: 120

ARCH 108 Architectural Internship 5 Units

Terms offered: Summer 2025 8 Week Session, Summer 2023 8 Week Session, Summer 2022 8 Week Session

An intensive and structured exposure to the professional practice, using the resources of practicing architects' offices as the "laboratory." The seminar discussion focus on understanding how design happens, how projects are managed and how buildings are constructed.

Rules & Requirements

Prerequisites: 100B or consent of instructor

Hours & Format

Fall and/or spring: 15 weeks - 2 hours of lecture and 10.5 hours of internship per week

Summer: 8 weeks - 4 hours of lecture and 21 hours of tutorial per week

Additional Details

Subject/Course Level: Architecture/Undergraduate

Grading/Final exam status: Letter grade. Final exam not required.

Instructor: Comerio

Formerly known as: 128

ARCH 109 Special Topics in Architectural Design 1 - 4 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2022, Summer 2020 8 Week Session, Fall 2019
Selected topics in the theories and concepts of architectural design. For current offerings, see department website.

Rules & Requirements

Prerequisites: Consent of instructor

Repeat rules: Course may be repeated for credit when topic changes.

Hours & Format

Fall and/or spring: 15 weeks - 1-4 hours of seminar per week

Summer: 8 weeks - 2-7.5 hours of seminar per week

Additional Details

Subject/Course Level: Architecture/Undergraduate

Grading/Final exam status: Letter grade. Final exam required.

ARCH 110AC The Social and Cultural Processes in Architecture & Urban Design 3 Units

Terms offered: Fall 2020, Fall 2019, Fall 2018

This class focuses on the significance of the physical environment in human life as citizens and as future design professionals and it introduces students to the field of human-environment studies. It shows how the social sciences and design can be mutually engaged, enriching the context for design evaluation and critique. Berkeley has long been known for attention to the social perspective on architecture, and this course falls in that tradition.

Rules & Requirements

Credit Restrictions: Students will receive no credit for Architecture 110AC after completing Architecture 110.

Requirements this course satisfies: Satisfies the American Cultures requirement

Hours & Format

Fall and/or spring: 10 weeks - 3 hours of lecture and 1.5 hours of discussion per week

Additional Details

Subject/Course Level: Architecture/Undergraduate

Grading/Final exam status: Letter grade. Alternative to final exam.

Instructor: Chiesi

ARCH 111 Housing: An International Survey 3 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2014, Spring 2013, Spring 2012

Introduction to international housing from the Architectural and City Planning perspective. Housing issues (social, cultural, and policy) ranging from micro-scale (house) to macro-scale (city) presented with a comparison of housing situations in developed and developing countries.

Hours & Format

Fall and/or spring: 15 weeks - 3 hours of lecture per week

Additional Details

Subject/Course Level: Architecture/Undergraduate

Grading/Final exam status: Letter grade. Final exam required.

ARCH 112 The Social Life of Building 3 Units

Terms offered: Fall 2024, Fall 2023, Fall 2022

How do buildings form and inform the ways in which we live — as individuals and as part of different communities? This course explores the multiple ways in which people and buildings interact. Our cultural and economic practices shape the form of our environment which in turn shapes social constructions of gender, race and class. At the same time, as individuals, we are always making choices about how we use our spaces. Intended as a gateway to advanced architectural humanities classes, the course is organized around three themes that highlight ways of thinking about individual actions, social constructions of gender, race and class, and cultural associations of the built environment.

Hours & Format

Fall and/or spring: 15 weeks - 3 hours of lecture and 1 hour of discussion per week

Additional Details

Subject/Course Level: Architecture/Undergraduate

Grading/Final exam status: Letter grade. Alternative to final exam.

ARCH 119 Special Topics in the Social and Cultural Basis of Design 1 - 4 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2025, Fall 2024, Fall 2019

Selected topics in the social and cultural basis of design. For current offerings, see departmental website.

Rules & Requirements

Prerequisites: Consent of instructor

Repeat rules: Course may be repeated for credit when topic changes.

Hours & Format

Fall and/or spring: 15 weeks - 1-4 hours of seminar per week

Summer: 8 weeks - 2-8 hours of seminar per week

Grading/Final exam status: Letter grade. Final exam required.

ARCH 122 Principles of Computer Aided Architectural Design 4 Units

Terms offered: Fall 2009

This course introduces students to Architecture's New Media; why and how computers are being used in architecture, and what are their current and expected impacts on the discipline and practice of architecture. Topics include presentation and re-presentation (including sketching, drafting, modeling, animating, and rendering); generating design solutions (including generative systems, expert systems, genetic algorithms, and neural networks); evaluation and prediction (using examples from structures, energy, acoustics, and human factors); and the future uses of computers in architectural design (including such topics as construction automation, smart buildings, and virtual environments). The laboratories introduce students to REVIT, a state-of-the-art architectural software, including drafting, modeling, rendering, and for building information modeling. This course is co-listed with 222.

Hours & Format

Fall and/or spring: 15 weeks - 3 hours of lecture and 1.5 hours of laboratory per week

Summer: 8 weeks - 6 hours of lecture and 2 hours of laboratory per week

Additional Details

Subject/Course Level: Architecture/Undergraduate

Grading/Final exam status: Letter grade. Final exam required.

Formerly known as: 132

ARCH 123 2-D Computer Technology 2 Units

Terms offered: Summer 2012 8 Week Session, Summer 2011 10 Week Session, Summer 2011 8 Week Session

The course provides students with practical hands-on experience in using professional architectural drafting software (e.g., Autocad). The course covers the process of creating, manipulating, and communicating through digital drawings.

Hours & Format

Summer:

6 weeks - 5 hours of laboratory per week

8 weeks - 3.5 hours of laboratory per week

ARCH 125A Building Information Technology 2 Units

Terms offered: Summer 2025 First 6 Week Session, Summer 2023 First 6 Week Session, Summer 2023 Second 6 Week Session

This course explores conceptual and practical issues surrounding the Building Information Model (BIM), a widely-used approach in the Architecture Engineering and Construction (AEC) industry for the management of digital representations of the physical characteristics of buildings, their functions, and the process by which they are built. By completing this course, students develop an understanding of the concepts underlying BIM, and build competencies in creating BIM models in practice.

Hours & Format

Summer:

6 weeks - 4 hours of laboratory, 2 hours of discussion, and 1 hour of lecture per week

6 weeks - 4 hours of laboratory, 2 hours of discussion, and 1 hour of lecture per week

ARCH 127 Workshop in Designing Virtual Places 4 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2010

This course introduces students to designing web-accessible, Multi User, Virtual Environments (MUEs), inhabited through avatars. Such worlds are used in video games and web-based applications, and are assuming their role as alternative 'places' to physical spaces, where people shop, learn, are entertained, and socialize. Virtual worlds are designed according to the same principles that guide the design of physical spaces, with allowances made for the absence of gravity and other laws of nature. The course combines concepts from architecture, film studies, and video game design. It uses a game engine software and a modeling software to build, test, and deploy virtual worlds.

Hours & Format

Fall and/or spring: 15 weeks - 3 hours of seminar and 1.5 hours of laboratory per week

Additional Details

Subject/Course Level: Architecture/Undergraduate

Grading/Final exam status: Letter grade. Final exam not required.

ARCH 129 Special Topics in Digital Design Theories and Methods 1 - 4 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2025, Fall 2024, Spring 2022

Topics cover advanced and research-related issues in digital design and New Media, related to architecture. For current offerings, see department website.

Rules & Requirements

Prerequisites: Consent of instructor

Repeat rules: Course may be repeated for credit when topic changes.

Hours & Format

Fall and/or spring: 15 weeks - 1-4 hours of lecture per week

Summer: 8 weeks - 2-8 hours of lecture per week

Grading/Final exam status: Letter grade. Final exam required.

ARCH 130 Introduction to Architectural Design Theory and Criticism 4 Units

Terms offered: Fall 2025, Fall 2024, Fall 2023

This class introduces students to the history and practice of design theory from the late 19th century to the present, with emphasis on developments of the last four decades. Readings and lectures explore specific constellations of theory and practice in relation to changing social and historical conditions. The course follows the rise of modernist design thinking, with particular emphasis on the growing influence of technical rationality across multiple fields in the post World War II period. Systematic approaches based in cybernetics and operations research (amongst others) are examined in the context of wider attempts to develop a science of design. Challenges to modernist design thinking, through advocacy planning and community-based design, the influence of social movements and countercultures, and parallel developments in postmodernism within and beyond architecture, provide the critical background for consideration of recent approaches to design theory, including those informed by developments in digital media and technology, environmental and ecological concerns, questions surrounding the globalization of architectural production, and the development of new materials.

Rules & Requirements

Prerequisites: Open to upper division undergraduates

Hours & Format

Fall and/or spring: 15 weeks - 3 hours of lecture and 1 hour of discussion per week

ARCH 133 Architectures of Globalization: Contested Spaces of Global Culture 3 Units

Terms offered: Fall 2010, Fall 2009

This seminar examines the relationship between architecture and the processes associated with globalization. The social and spatial changes connected to the global economic restructuring of the last four decades are explored in relation to distinctive national conditions and their connection to historical forces such as colonization and imperialism.

Theoretical arguments about international urban political economy, uneven development, deindustrialization, and the growth of tourism and service industries, are grounded in specific urban and architectural contexts. Case studies explore issues such as urban entrepreneurialism and the branding of cities and nationstates; heritage practices and the postcolonial politics of place; border cities, and the urbanism of transnational production; cities, terrorism, and the global architecture of security; critical regionalism, localism, and other responses to debates on place and placelessness. Readings and class discussions examine course themes in a comparative framework and consider their implications for architectural design, education, and professional practice.

Rules & Requirements

Prerequisites: This course is open to all graduate students and upper division undergraduates

Hours & Format

Fall and/or spring: 15 weeks - 3 hours of seminar per week

ARCH 136 The Literature of Space 3 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2012, Spring 2011, Spring 2010

The concept of space as it is applied to the fields of architecture, geography and urbanism can be understood as a barometer of the condition that we call "modernity." This course explores connections between the larger cultural frameworks of the past century, and the idea of space as it has been perceived, conceived and lived during this period. Readings include essays from the disciplines of philosophy, geography, architecture, landscape, and urbanism, and short works of fiction that illustrate and elucidate the spatial concepts. The readings are grouped according to themes that form the foundation for weekly seminar discussions. Chronological and thematic readings reveal the force of history upon the conceptualization of space, and its contradictions.

ARCH 140 Energy and Environment 4 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2025, Spring 2024, Spring 2023

This course provides undergraduates and graduates with an introduction to issues of physical building performance including building thermodynamics, daylighting, and solar control. The course presents the fundamentals of building science while recognizing the evolving nature of building technologies, energy efficiency, ecology, and responsible design. The course begins with a detailed explication of the thermal properties of materials, heat transfer through building assemblies, balance point temperature, solar geometry, and shading analysis. Students apply these principles later in the course to a design project. The latter part of the course also provides a survey of broader building science topics including mechanical system design, microclimate, and current developments in energy-efficient design.

ARCH 144 Introduction to Acoustics 1 Unit

Terms offered: Fall 2025, Fall 2024, Fall 2023

This course focuses on what architects need to know about acoustics. The first part deals with the fundamentals of acoustics including how sound levels are described and measured, and human response to sound. The course then covers building acoustics, mechanical equipment noise and vibration control, office acoustics, design of sound amplification systems, and environmental acoustics.

ARCH 155 Structure, Construction, and Space 3 Units

Terms offered: Fall 2009

In profound buildings, the structural system, construction materials, and architectural form work together to create an integrated work of art. Current practice segregates these three areas by assigning separate and rigid roles to 1) an engineer, 2) a contractor, and 3) an architect. The goal of this class is to blur these traditional boundaries and erase the intellectual cleft through hands-on experience. Students are given weekly assignments which focus on one or more of the three areas. They may be asked to analyze a structure, to construct something from actual materials, or research a case study and present it to the class. Each assignment is geared to help students integrate construction and structural issues into their architectural design, so that they can maintain control of the entire design process.

ARCH 160 Introduction to Construction 4 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2025, Spring 2024, Spring 2023

This introduction to the materials and processes of construction takes architecture from design to realization. The course will cover four material groups commonly used in two areas of the building assembly (structure and envelope): wood, concrete, steel, and glass. You will understand choices available and how materials are conventionally used. By observing construction, you'll see how our decisions affect the size of materials, connections, and where they are assembled. Architects must understand not only conventions, but also the potential in materials, so we will also study unusual and new developments.

ARCH 173 Case Studies in Modern Architecture 3 Units

Terms offered: Fall 2010, Fall 2009, 1974

This course examines developments in design, theory, graphic representation, construction technology, and interior programming through case studies of individual buildings. Our survey technique will be highly focused rather than panoptic. Each lecture will delve deeply into one or two buildings to examine program, spatial organization, graphic representation, critical building details, construction technology, and the relationship of the case study building with regard to other contemporary structures and the architect's overall body of work. From this nucleus, we will spiral outward to consider how the case study is embedded within a constellation of social and economic factors crucial to its design and physical realization. This survey of "modernism's built discourses" provides multiple perspectives on the variety of architectural propositions advanced to express the nature of modernity as a way of life.

ARCH C174 Architecture in Depression and War 4 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2010

The Great Depression and World War II are arguably the two most influential events for the development of the built environment in the 20th century. Not only did they alter the socio-economic and political landscape on which architecture and urban planning depend, but they also led to technological innovations and vital debates about the built environment. This course examines the 1930's and 1940's topically, studying the work of the New Deal, corporate responses to the Depression and war, the important connections between architecture and advertising, the role of the Museum of Modern Art in the promotion of Modernism, the concept of the ideal house, and key tests, theories, and projects from the period.

ARCH 175 Introduction to Architectural Theory 1945-Present 3 Units

Terms offered: Prior to 2007

This seminar provides an introduction to architectural theory since 1945, with emphasis on developments over the last three decades. Class readings and discussions explore the post-World War II crisis within modernism, postmodernism within and beyond architectural culture, and more recent developments around issues such as rapid urbanization, sustainability, the politics of cultural identity, and globalization. Transformations in architectural theory are examined in relation to historical forces such as the economy, the growth and transformation of cities, and the changing relationship between design professions and disciplines. The influences of digital media, new materials and production techniques on architectural education and practice are explored and the implications for architectural theory assessed. Key issues are anchored in case studies of buildings, urban spaces, and the institutions and agents of architectural culture.

Rules & Requirements

Prerequisites: Open to upper division undergraduates and graduate students

ARCH 176 American Architecture 3 Units

Terms offered: 1974

The first half of this course surveys American architecture from Colonial times to contemporary trends. Stylistic and spatial analysis is linked with the socioeconomic, political, and environmental influences on architecture, issues on originality, American exceptionalism, the influence from abroad, regionalism, and the role of technology. The second half delves more deeply into the history of specific building types--house, church, museum, library--grafting the earlier themes onto a history of modern institutions as they took shape in the United States.

ARCH 177 California Architecture 3 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2025, Fall 2023, Fall 2021

Many California architects came from other places: Maybeck from New York via the Ecole des Beaux Arts; Schindler and Neutra from Vienna; Frank Gehry from Chicago.

But, once they arrived, their encounters with the Golden State produced new and original forms of architecture. This seminar will examine the qualities of the state's environment, culture, economy, and population that have produced unique buildings and landscapes

during the 20th century. It will look at both Northern and Southern California architecture, starting with canonical designers then moving beyond them to consider lesser-known regional architects whose work embodies local characteristics.

ARCH 178 Visionary Architecture 3 Units

Terms offered: Prior to 2007

This course explores architectural visions as historical windows, examining them from a number of angles. Using a variety of case studies drawn from different media (architectural theory, film, advertisements, architectural projects, and so on) and periods (turn of the century, the Modern Movement, Depression, World War II, 1960's, etc.) it provides a sampling of possibilities and models for the final student project, an in-depth, original research paper. Several themes thread their way through the course, including the role of the "unbuilt" in architectural practice; the uses of the future in the construction of national and personal identities, cultural narratives, and modern mythologies; and the importance of the future as cliché, and the role of play in cultural production.

ARCH 188 Utopian Freehand Drawing and Painting: Architecture and the City 3 Units

Terms offered: Prior to 2007

The intention of this class is to keep alive this type of free (irrational, exploratory, open and playful) passion and make us realize that on the one hand the interdependence between Design and Drawing, and on the other hand, that any of our artistic productions may contain architectural ideas that are nascent, not yet fully developed but useful seeds for our future practice. With this objective in mind, each week, besides producing a single (large) drawing-painting, students will reflect on this process and on the architectural design lessons learned, in the form of an itemized list of condensed realizations.

ARCH 200D Representational Practice in Architectural Design II 2 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2025, Spring 2024, Spring 2023

ARCH 200D is the second part in a two-part sequence of classes that introduces students to techniques of architectural representation as well as the concepts and precedents that surround them. Building on the concepts and techniques introduced in ARCH 200C, this class will expand students' technical knowledge to include rendering, notation, and graphic design. Each topic will be broken into a separate module and be supported with lectures, discussions, tutorials, workshops and presentations. Additionally, the class is closely linked with ARCH 200B, Introduction to Architecture Studio 2 and will provide much of the technical skill-building for that class.

ARCH 203 Integrated Design Studio 6 Units

Terms offered: Fall 2025, Fall 2024, Fall 2021

The Integrated Design Studio is the penultimate studio where students incorporate their accumulated knowledge into architectural solutions. The students demonstrate the integrative thinking that shapes complex architectural design and technical solutions. Students will possess an understanding to classify, compare, summarize, explain and/or interpret information. The students will also become proficient in using specific information to accomplish a task, correctly selecting the appropriate information and accurately applying it to the solution of a specific problem while also distinguishing the effects of its implementation.

ARCH 212 Body-Conscious Design: Shoes, Chairs, Rooms, and Beyond 3 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2018, Spring 2017, Spring 2016

This seminar prepares students to evaluate and design environments from the point of view of how they interact with the human body. Tools and clothing modify that interaction. Semi-fixed features of the near environment, especially furniture, may have greater impact on physical well being and social-psychological comfort than fixed features like walls, openings, and volume. Today, designers can help redefine and legitimize new attitudes toward supporting the human body by, for example, designing for a wide range of postural alternatives and possibly designing new kinds of furniture.

ARCH 215 Landscape, Architecture, Infrastructure, and Urbanism 3 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2014, Spring 2013, Spring 2012

This seminar aims to explore how the physical and conceptual understanding of landscape can enrich current forms of architectural and urban design practice. At the junction of landform, infrastructure, urban design, and architecture lies a rich field of possibilities that is increasingly superseding the narrower field of each of the disciplines by themselves. In the past century, contemporary culture and technology—automobiles, televisions, cell phones, and the internet have socially, culturally, environmentally, and physically reshaped the urban fabric, calling into question the very definition of urbanity. The course will explore the implications for public space in an era of increased security and risk mitigation and how designers may direct the various invisible forces which give form to the world around us.

ARCH 216 The Sociology of Taste in Environmental Design 3 Units

Terms offered: Fall 2016, Fall 2012, Fall 2011

Taste is at work in the way we display our things as much as in the qualities of things themselves. A performance-oriented model of taste observes that objects fall into two broad categories: pragmatic (that support behavior) and symbolic (that identify a person). People visually organize these two categories of objects using both explicit and subconscious aesthetic rules to produce visually unified displays. Depending on how it is used, how it is placed in relation to other things, an object's meaning can vary. The display of taste is where objects take on--and shed--meanings, depending on how they are combined with one another. This seminar reviews the extensive body of 20th-century theory and empirical research on taste and considers the implications of theories about taste for design creation, design education, and for client-professional relations.

ARCH 217 Social Aspects of Housing Design: Mid-Rise Urbanism 3 Units

Terms offered: Fall 2012, Fall 2011

The course explores strategies to bring coherence and continuity back to the city focusing on mid-rise, higher density urbanism and the potential and difficulties of this scale of urban fabric to contribute to the form of cities, without losing the potential of choice and diversity. The seminars are organized in case studies revolving around four cities: Amsterdam, Barcelona, Beijing, and New York. Design exercises parallel the case studies as a way to test and challenge the potentials of mid-rise urbanism.

ARCH 218 Housing, Urbanization, and Urbanism: Design, Planning, and Policy Issues in Developing Countries 4 Units

Terms offered: Prior to 2007

This seminar is concerned with the study of housing, urbanization, and urbanism in developing countries, studying not only the physical landscapes of settlements, but also the social, economic, political, and cultural dimensions. This course's focus will be on housing, its lens will be their processes of urbanization, and its intent will be to investigate the space for action by the professionals of the "urban" in the arena of housing. While the emphasis of the course will be on the diverse trajectories of developing countries, "First World" experiences will also be used to illuminate the specific transnational connections and their use in the making of housing theory and policy. The seminar complements the series of lectures offered in 111 and City Planning 111.

ARCH 220A Technologies of Representation 1 2 Units

Terms offered: Fall 2025

This course in particular focuses on the principles of architectural drawing and three-dimensional modeling, emphasizing precision in projection-based representation and digital modeling workflows. Students develop fluency in constructing and editing spatial representations through technical drawing, surface modeling, and volumetric exploration using professional tools (e.g., Rhino, Illustrator). Through structured exercises, students refine their ability to generate clear, communicative drawings and models that serve as foundational design representations.

Terms offered: Fall 2025

As a part of this larger sequence, this particular course explores the production of architectural imagery, focusing on digital rendering, compositing, and visual communication. Students engage with methods for simulating material properties, lighting conditions, and atmospheric effects to produce compelling visualizations that support design narratives. Emphasizing both technical precision and aesthetic considerations, the course equips students with the skills necessary to develop evocative architectural imagery for design presentation and critique.

ARCH 222 Principles of Computer Aided Architectural Design 4 Units

Terms offered: Fall 2009

This course introduces students to Architecture's New Media; why and how computers are being used in architecture and what are their current and expected impacts on the discipline and practice of architecture. Topics include presentation and re-presentation (including sketching, drafting, modeling, animating, and rendering); generating design solutions (generative systems, expert systems, genetic algorithms, and neural networks); evaluation and prediction (using examples from structures, energy, acoustics, and human factors); and the future uses of computers in architectural design (including such topics as construction automation, smart buildings, and virtual environments). The laboratories introduce students to a REVIT, a state-of-the-art architectural software, including drafting, modeling, rendering, and building information modeling. This course is co-listed with 122. Graduate students will have a discussion section instead of the laboratory that 122 students undertake.

ARCH 226 Collaboration by Digital Design 3 Units

Terms offered: Prior to 2007

This project-based seminar studies the problem of multi-disciplinary and cross-cultural collaboration in the building industry. It employs two complementary approaches: 1) a theoretical approach, which examines the nature of collaboration in general and in architecture in particular, looks at the methods that have been used to foster and support it, and interrogates their advantages and shortcomings; and 2) a practical approach, which use a web-based multi-person design 'game' that allow students to play different roles (architect, clients, engineer, builder, etc.) while collaborating in the design of a building.

ARCH 227 Workshop in Designing Virtual Places 4 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2010

This course introduces students to designing web-accessible, Multi User, Virtual Environments (MUVes), inhabited through avatars. Such worlds are used in video games and web-based applications, and are assuming their role as alternative 'places' to physical spaces, where people shop, learn, are entertained, and socialize. Virtual worlds are designed according to the same principles that guide the design of physical spaces, with allowances made for the absence of gravity and other laws of nature. The course combines concepts from architecture, film studies, and video game design. It uses a game engine software and a modeling software to build, test, and deploy virtual worlds.

ARCH 233 Architectures of Globalization: Contested Spaces of Global Culture 3 Units

Terms offered: Fall 2010, Fall 2009

This seminar examines the relationship between architecture and the processes associated with globalization. The social and spatial changes connected to the global economic restructuring of the last four decades are explored in relation to distinctive national conditions and their connection to historical forces such as colonization and imperialism. Theoretical arguments about international urban political economy, uneven development, deindustrialization and the growth of tourism and service industries, are grounded in specific urban and architectural contexts. Case studies explore issues such as urban entrepreneurialism and the branding of cities and nation-states; heritage practices and the postcolonial politics of place; border cities, and the urbanism of transnational production; cities, terrorism and the global architecture of security; critical regionalism, localism and other responses to debates on place and placelessness. Readings and class discussions examine course themes in a comparative framework and consider their implications for architectural design, education and professional practice.

ARCH 236 The Literature of Space 3 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2012, Spring 2011, Spring 2010

The concept of space as it is applied to the fields of architecture, geography, and urbanism can be understood as a barometer of the condition that we call "modernity." This course explores connections between the larger cultural frameworks of the past century, and the idea of space as it has been perceived, conceived, and lived during this period. Readings include key essays from the disciplines of philosophy, geography, architecture, landscape, and urbanism, and short works of fiction that illustrate and elucidate the spatial concepts. The readings are grouped according to themes that form the foundation for weekly seminar discussions. Chronological and thematic readings reveal the force of history upon the conceptualization of space, and its contradictions.

ARCH 238 The Dialectic of Poetics and Technology 3 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2020, Spring 2019, Spring 2017

This seminar examines the relationship between technology and design philosophy in the work of architects through analysis of individual buildings within the context of the complete oeuvre and an examination of the architect's writings and lectures. The seminar poses questions such as: What is the role of technology in the design philosophy of the architect and how is this theoretical position established in the architect's writings, lectures, and interviews? A series of lectures explores these questions in relation to the architect and a set of required readings introduces the work of the architect and explores the relationship between technology and design philosophy.

ARCH 240 Advanced Study of Energy and Environment 3 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2025, Spring 2024, Spring 2023

Minimizing energy use is a cornerstone of designing and operating sustainable buildings, and attention to energy issues can often lead to greatly improved indoor environmental quality. For designers, using computer-based energy analysis tools are important not only to qualify for sustainability ratings and meet energy codes, but also to develop intuition about what makes buildings perform well. This course will present quantitative and qualitative methods for assessing energy performance during design of both residential and commercial buildings. Students will get hands-on experience with state-of-the-art software -- ranging from simple to complex -- to assess the performance of building components and whole-building designs.

ARCH 244 Mechanical Systems Design for Sustainable Buildings 3 Units

Terms offered: Fall 2011, Fall 2010, Fall 2009

This class will focus on how to design integrated mechanical systems for sustainable buildings. The building sector plays an important role in global warming, and it is critically important to reduce building energy use in order to reduce greenhouse gas emissions. Roughly one-third of the primary energy consumed in buildings is used for controlling the indoor environment through Heating, Ventilating and Air Conditioning (HVAC) and lighting systems. Achieving net-zero or positive energy or carbon buildings demands the integration of architecture, structure, and building systems to optimize both passive and active systems.

ARCH 245 Daylighting in Architecture 3 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2025, Spring 2023, Spring 2017

Daylighting is a cornerstone of architecture design, a fundamental aspect of space making. The course focuses on design approaches to natural light, resorting to the study of precedents in modern and contemporary architecture, daylighting vocabularies and grammars, rules of thumb, field measurements, quantitative studies and computer simulations. Other topics include health and comfort, energy conservation, metrics and standards. Weekly sessions comprise both lectures and labs. Final projects are developed in groups and use both qualitative and quantitative methods to assess design solutions.

ARCH 246 Building Energy Simulations 3 Units

Terms offered: Fall 2023, Fall 2021

Energy saving in buildings is among the most cost-effective and environmentally sustainable measures to reduce greenhouse gasses emissions and energy consumption. 40% of the primary energy use and 75% of total U.S. electricity consumption is used in buildings. Computer-based energy analysis tools are important for architects, building designers, engineers, and sustainability consultants to use for evidence-based design, sustainability ratings, energy code compliance, building control and optimization, policy development, and assessment.

Objectives & Outcomes

Course Objectives: Develop a fundamental and practical knowledge about building performance and energy simulations. Specify, design, run, analyze, compare and assess building energy simulations.

Student Learning Outcomes: Energy modeling by performing guided energy simulations and apply them to a project. Flexibility to select a building that you like, for example, it could be a school, a house, a commercial building.

ARCH 250 Introduction to Structures 3 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2025, Spring 2024, Spring 2023

This class focuses on the fundamental principles that affect the structural behavior of buildings. Through digital and hands-on exercises, students will learn analytical techniques for measuring and evaluating the flow of forces through structural systems. Students will also learn to consider the structural behavior of buildings as a fundamental factor in the design of architectural proposals. The goal of the class is to gain a fundamental understanding of the forces, moments, and stresses in typical building elements such as columns, beams, frames and walls and to make better informed decisions when designing resource- and environmentally-friendly buildings with lightweight and material-efficient structural systems.

ARCH 252 Form and Structure 3 Units

Terms offered: Fall 2025, Fall 2024, Fall 2023

The class investigates the interplay between geometry and structural behavior of different structural systems categorized with respect to their load-bearing mechanism. Special focus is placed on form-active and surface-active structures like cable nets, membranes, gridshells, and continuous shells. The class will begin by providing a holistic overview of ancient and cutting-edge form-finding approaches and analysis methods. Using playful physical experiments, students will gain a hands-on understanding of how different structural states can affect the shape of a structure and how this interrelation could be used creatively to drive the design process.

ARCH 255 Structure, Construction, and Space 3 Units

Terms offered: Prior to 2007
In profound buildings, the structural system, construction materials, and architectural form work together to create an integrated work of art. Current practice segregates these three areas by assigning separate and rigid roles to 1) an engineer, 2) a contractor, and 3) an architect. The goal of this class is to blur these traditional boundaries and erase the intellectual cleft through hands-on experience. Students are given weekly assignments which focus on one or more of the three areas. They may be asked to analyze a structure, to construct something from actual materials or research a case study and present it to the class. Each assignment is geared to help students integrate construction and structural issues into their architectural design so that they can maintain control of the entire design process.

ARCH 256 Structural Design in the Studio 1 - 3 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2016, Fall 2015, Fall 2013
Teaching structures to architecture students on their own turf: in a design studio. The course is organized around weekly desk reviews and assignments for students enrolled in a 201 design studio or thesis. The reviews and assignments focus on the structural issues of the students' projects. A central goal of the course is to help students understand structural issues as they relate to design and to help them become comfortable with structural concepts so that they can begin to integrate the structure and architecture. The course can be taken for 1 unit, 2 units, or 3 units depending on the amount of time a student wishes to commit to it. A final report showing the evolution of each student's project with clear reference to how structural understanding influenced design decisions is required of all students regardless of units taken. Enrollment strictly limited to 10 students.

ARCH 265 Japanese Craft and Construction 3 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2011, Spring 2009, Spring 2005

The class addresses the role craft and construction play in Japanese architecture and applies these lessons to the evaluation of an exemplary recent building having unusual technical features. Buildings are expressions of theoretic and technical intent and a response to cultural and economic forces; Japanese architecture is regarded as particularly innovative. In studying a system where there is an emphasis on collaboration, students also see the values of North American systems of architectural production.

ARCH 273 Case Studies in Modern Architecture 3 Units

Terms offered: Fall 2010

This course examines developments in design, theory, graphic representation, construction technology, and interior programming through case studies of individual buildings. Our survey technique will be highly focused rather than panoptic. Each lecture will delve deeply into one or two buildings to examine program, spatial organization, graphic representation, critical building details, construction technology, and the relationship of the case study building with regard to other contemporary structures and the "architect's overall body of work". From this nucleus, we will spiral outward to consider how the case study is embedded within a constellation of social and economic factors crucial to its design and physical realization. This survey of "modernism's built discourses" provides multiple perspectives on the variety of architectural propositions advanced to express the nature of modernity as a way of life.

ARCH 275 Introduction to Architectural Theory 1945 - Present 3 Units

Terms offered: Prior to 2007

This seminar provides an introduction to architectural theory since 1945, with emphasis on developments over the last three decades. Class readings, and discussions explore the post-World War II crisis within modernism, postmodernism within and beyond architectural culture, and more recent developments around issues such as rapid urbanization, sustainability, the politics of cultural identity and globalization. Transformations in architectural theory are examined in relation to historical forces such as the economy, the growth and transformation of cities, and the changing relationship between design professions and disciplines. The influences of digital media, new materials and production techniques on architectural education and practice are explored and the implications for architectural theory assessed. Key issues are anchored in case studies of buildings, urban spaces, and the institutions and agents or architectural culture.

ARCH 277 California Architecture 3 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2025, Fall 2023, Fall 2021

Many California architects came from other places: Maybeck from New York via the Ecole des Beaux Arts; Schindler and Neutra from Vienna; Frank Gehry from Chicago. But, once they arrived, their encounters with the Golden State produced new and original forms of architecture. This seminar will examine the qualities of the state's environment, culture, economy, and population that have produced unique buildings and landscapes during the 20th century. It will look at both Northern and Southern California architecture, starting with canonical designers then moving beyond them to consider lesser-known regional architects whose work embodies local characteristics.

ARCH 278 Visionary Architecture 3 Units

Terms offered: Prior to 2007

This course explores architectural visions as historical windows, examining them from a number of angles. Using a variety of cases studies drawn from different media (architectural theory, film, advertisements, architectural projects, and so on) and periods (turn of the century, the Modern Movement, Depression, World War II, 1860's, etc.) It provides a sampling of possibilities and models for the final student project, an in-depth, original research paper. Several themes thread their way through the course, including the role of the "unbuilt" in architectural history and architectural practice; the uses of the future in the construction of national and personal identities, cultural narratives, and modern mythologies; the importance of the future as cliché, and the role of play in cultural production.

ARCH 375 Seminar in the Teaching of Architecture 2 Units

Terms offered: Spring 2025, Spring 2024, Spring 2023

This class is intended for first-time graduate student instructors, especially those working in studio and lab settings. The class covers a range of issues that normally come up when teaching, offers suggestions regarding how to work well with other graduate student instructors and faculty, and how to manage a graduate student instructor's role as both student and teacher. The greatest benefit of this class comes from the opportunity to explore important topics together. Using a relatively light, but provocative set of readings, the seminar will explore the issues raised each week. There will be one assignment intended to help students explore their own expectations as educators.

Hours & Format

Fall and/or spring: 15 weeks - 2 hours of seminar per week
